CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

Congress is now in the midst of its final drive toward adjournment. It is hoped that certain "must" legislation can be completed by the end of this week (July 29th). However, it is probable that the final legislative details of this session of the 76th Congress cannot be completed before some time next week, but unless all signs fail, the adjournment will come not later than August 5th.

President Roosevelt and his Administration suffered three serious defeats last week. The first came at a dramatic conference held at the White House, to which Mr. Roosevelt had summoned both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate to discuss with him the revival of neutrality legislation rejected by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a few days before. It is reported that much plain talk was engaged in at the conference and that at times rather heated words filled the air. The visiting Senators finally convinced the President that no legislation could be passed without the neutrality law, which places an embargo on the shipment of arms and munitions to warring nations. It is also said that one famous Senator rather bluntly informed the President that neither the Senate nor the people were willing to extend to the Chief Executive any greater powers regarding international affairs and our foreign relations than he now possesses under the present law. At the end of the long conference Mr. Roosevelt finally agreed to drop the fight for his new Neutrality Bill at this session of Congress, but indicated that the battle would again be taken up at the next session, scheduled for January, or at a special session of Congress, should developments require.

After months of parliamentary maneuvers and fighting behind the scenes, the conservative bloc in the House of Representatives last week forced out on the floor for a vote, a resolution providing for a special investigation of the National Labor Relations Board by a five man special House investigating committee. Administration leaders fought to the last ditch to prevent the investigation resolution being brought to a vote, all to no avail. After acrimonious debate, in which charges and counter charges were hurled, the roll was called resulting in 254 votes being cast for the investigation and 134 against it. The vote summary showed that 104 Democrats voted with 150 Republicans in passing the resolution. 123 Democrats, 9 Republicans, and 2 Independents, voted against the measure. The investigating committee will sit during the congressional recess with full power to subpoena witnesses and hold hearings anywhere in the United States. While the committee has not as yet been named, it is predicted that Representative Smith, Democrat of Virginia, author of the resolution, will be chairman of the investigating committee.

The third Presidential defeat of the week came when a coalition of the new Republican minority and anti-New Deal Democrats of the House fought off all attempts of the Administration leaders to kill or materially amend the Hatch Bill providing for drastic curbs on pernicious political practices by office holders and prohibiting activity by, or the intimidation or coercion of, public employees or Relief workers. The bill was drawn by Senator Hatch of New Mexico as a result of the revelations made in the Senate investigation of the 1938 elections, and of the Democratic primaries in that year in which attempts were made to purge certain anti-Administration Senators and Representatives. Passed after the session by the Senate, the Hatch Bill had been bottled up in a House committee by Administration leaders, only to be forced out on the floor for consideration a few days ago. Chairman Farley and the Democratic National Committee were in the thick of the fight against the bill. The final vote marked the most drastic defeat received by the Administration and the National Democratic organization since the beginning of the New Deal in 1932. Every Republican vote—167 in all—was cast for the "clean politics" bill. 89 Democrats broke over party traces to join with the Republican colleagues in the passage of the Hatch Bill, as

County Organizations Saving Tax Stamps

Greene County organizations which have been saving sales tax stamps during recent months for their cash redemption value today were rewarded for their efforts by announcement from the Department of Taxation of redemption amounts due as of July 15. Among those organizations whose redemption applications have been received and approved are: M. E. Church, Spring Valley; Osborn, Fairfield Bus. & Prof. Women's Club, Osborn; and Trinity Methodist Church, Xenia.

Sales tax stamps are redeemable at three per cent of their face value under the Ward law passed by the last Legislature, effective since May 1.

Greene County stamp-collecting organizations have requested friends and members to demand their stamps from retail clerks in every instance upon making purchases, and with the money they plan various civic programs for the common good. Technically, individuals may redeem stamps, but the task of sorting and segregating them makes redemption by individuals almost prohibitive.

Collections from sales of tax stamps has increased $3,147,034 over a year ago for the period from January 1 to July 15, according to Don E. Ebricht, state treasurer.

Taft for the selection of Ohio delegates to the Republican National Convention. The Governor praised Senator Taft in that he would make a good president.

TRUCK UPSETS AND BURNS ON COLUMBUS PIKE

A truck load of tomatoes from Georgia to Cleveland was upset early last Friday this side of Selma on Route 42. The truck burned and the tomatoes were scattered over a nearby field to the advantage of hogs in the pasture. J. G. Legge, 17 driver, Portland, Tenn., and his helper, James Bryant, 18, escaped injury. The driver failed to take a sharp curve in the road. Cecil Strohbridge, county patrolman from the Sheriff's office investigated.

Cedarville and Miami Twp., some time ago turned all relief cases over to the county commissioners.

HUGE PAGEANT TO BE FEATURE OF CENTENNIAL

With the arrival in Xenia, July 5 of the director for the John B. Rogers Producing Company, which will direct the huge Historical Spectacle, "From Wilderness to Wings" that will be the outstanding feature of the Centennial celebration, the activities in connection with the One Hundredth Greene County Fair, began to hum and will keep humming with increasing crescendo until they merge into the Fair August 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Having the distinction of being the oldest County Fair west of the Allegheny Mountains, the Greene County Fair will take on all the features of a real Centennial celebration this year and the Centennial note will be carried out in all departments. The history of this great agricultural section will be recalled in exhibits and incidents that will be shown in various ways during the four days and nights of the Fair and each day and night will be crowded with interest.

A feature of the first Greene County Fair, held in 1839 was a plowing contest in which the sturdy farmers who were clearing off the forests and turning over for the first time the rich soil of these river valleys, met in friendly contest with the primitive plows then in use. This contest will be reenacted at the Centennial Fair.

The outstanding feature of the Centennial will be the Historical Spectacle, "From Wilderness to Wings" which will be presented each night from a huge stage, across the track in front of the Grand Stand. The story of Greene County for the past one hundred years will be reenacted from actual incidents in the county's history. Hundreds of Greene County people will take part, many of them descendants of the people whose stories will be presented. There will be beautiful effects by drama, music and lights and the stage settings will be superb throughout. The oldest families of the county are now ransacking attics, and bringing out from old chests where they have been stored for years, the quaint old costumes and accessories that have been handed down from the great and great-great grandparents. Greene County has become for the time being "history minded" and all classes are joining to make the One Hundredth Fair, a memorable event.

Among the episodes which will be shown in the production, "From Wilderness to Wings" will be an early Shawnee Village with the tribe gathered about the fires. There will be various Indian dances and incidents that will be fascinating interesting and colorful. The old grist mill and block house built in 1800 will be features of an Early Settlers episode. The first Court House in Greene County, a rough log cabin, will be reproduced. A typical pioneer school will no doubt furnish the attending crowds with plenty of good laughs as the school room and teaching methods are presented. An early church service to which settlers rode many, many miles on horseback, will demonstrate the devotion of the early settlers to the religion which has been the basis for the splendid civilization which they established in the wilderness.

A pioneer wedding will furnish a romantic interest in the action of the Spectacle. The coming of the first railroad, the "underground railroad" and many other episodes will hold interest throughout the production which will climax with an episode devoted to the progress achieved by the Greene County of today. Special bleachers will be built so that ample seating accommodations may be furnished for the crowds that will attend. The usual price of 25c admission to the grounds and 25c admission to the Grand Stand will be used.

In the interest centering about the Centennial the other features of the Fair have not been overlooked and all departments will be fully up to the standards of other years. The racing program is especially fine for all four days and the advance notice indicate a meet that will draw fans from all over the state. Ray Henley whose past feats need no mentioning, will return from his present location in Canada, to race again on his home track, at the Greene County Fair.

Fire Chief Lloyd Conrath had the old hand fire engine out Wednesday afternoon giving it a test before it goes to the centennial celebration at the county fair next week. The engine still has some pressure but cannot lift water. By using a hose from the hydrant the engine placed water in the gutter of the opera house building. The engine was built in 1851 and was the only protection the town had from fire for many years. It was purchased by public subscription on the part of citizens here in 1851.

Gov. Says Appointees Were Not Needed

The civil service reorganization act, liberalizing authority of the Republican state administration to discharge appointees of the previous Democratic administration, has developed a hot inter-party contest.

As the Democratic Party launched a fight to put the legislative enactment before the voters in the hope they would reject it in November, Gov. John W. Bricker asserted:

"This movement is wholly for the purpose of keeping on the pay roll those appointed for political reasons."

"We have removed 3,500 or 4,000 political appointees of the last administration," he added, "and this is merely a fight by them to retain their jobs or get salaries from the state."

The Ohio Supreme Court recently invalidated the dismissal of two provisional state employees who had been hired in former Gov. Martin L. Davey's administration, but a petition for a rehearing has halted their reinstatement.

The new civil service law, which also adds a third member to the state civil service commission, will become effective Sept. 6, unless the Democratic forces obtained 144,000 signatures to referendum petitions by then.

Once the act goes into effect, provisional employees can be dismissed summarily.

Gov. Bricker declared that "we are now doing a more efficient job than was done with the padded pay rolls of the last administration."

"This is not a political issue with me, he insisted. 'It is just a matter of economy, good government and living within our income.'"

Plan New Roadway On Route No. 40

Plans are being completed for a new four-lane highway running nearly nine miles from the limits of Columbus on W. Broad st. to West Jefferson, it was announced Monday by State Highway Director Robert S. Beighler. Cost of the entire project, which will include a new bridge over Big Darby Creek, is estimated at about $900,000.

Construction of the new bridge, which engineers estimate will cost $250,000 together with the approaches, will eliminate a curve and sharp grade, long a traffic hazard. It was announced that the present road west from Columbus to the bridge will be continued in service and another 24-foot road will be constructed to parallel it on the north. A 10-foot parkway will separate the two.

Two Teachers Chosen To Fill Vacancies

The Cedarville Twp. Board of Education at a meeting Tuesday evening elected Miss Beatrice Pyles, as English teacher to succeed Mrs. Hazel Edwards, resigned. Miss Dorothy Cory was elected to succeed Miss William Chenoweth, fourth grade, who resigned last week.

The board is considering proposals for repair of the school building roof and no action was taken as to selection of a board member to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred M. Clemens.

State Board Of Education Urged

A proposed constitutional amendment, creating a state board of education, received approval of Ohio educators, Tuesday, while civil patriotic and political organization laid plans to campaign for the proposition at the November election.

Dr. Ward G. Reeder, professor of education at Ohio State university, said that answers to a questionnaire distributed by the school showed that 96 per cent of the nearly 300 high school officials preferred a state board in place of a single administrator, because it would "take the department of education out of politics and place it on a professional basis."

The proposed amendment would create a board of education whose members would serve without pay. The board would appoint a director of education, and duties of both board and director would be defined by subsequent legislation.

Representatives of the various women's organizations met here yesterday and decided to call a state-wide conference of interested groups early next month to launch a campaign for the amendment.

W. B. Bliss, executive secretary of the Ohio Education association, said the meeting was attended by representatives of the Parent-Teachers' association, Ohio League of Women Voters, Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, the Ohio Public Health association, the Business and Professional Women's club, the Women's auxiliary of the American Legion and others.

Penalty Provided For Misrepresentation Of Referendum Petitions

Attempts on the part of one or more to secure names to petitions, using the plea that they are to secure increase in old age pensions, is a direct violation of the Corrupt Practice Act and at the same time invalidate the petitions. The Secretary of State informs us that the penalty is from $100 to $500 fine and six months in prison or both "any persons sign petitions without reading the heading as was experienced here last week. Of course such petitions have no value when the proper authorities have been notified. The petitions in question had to do with the proposed referendum on the New Civil Service law, a number of signers having notified us that they took the peddler's word that it was for an increase in old age pensions. In addition such violation on the part of a pensioner can result in his pension being forfeited once he is brought into court on such a charge.

Two Damage Suits Are Compromised

Two damage suits filed by the late County Commissioner H. L. Batdorf, near Osborn, against the Wabash Portland Cement Co., arising from the escape of gas, smoke, dust and waste materials, carried from the Wabash plan by prevailing winds to the nearby Batdorf farm, have been compromised. Under terms of the court-approved agreement, the Wabash will install and operate dust-collecting equipment which will retain inside the plant from 75 to 80 per cent of the dust now entering the smoke stacks, thus reducing the volume of waste discharge to a minimum.

The company agreed to pay other cash considerations to the Batdorf estate, including a $2,690 judgment the commissioner obtained in federal court at Dayton, following jury trial of his first damage suit against the cement firm.

A second suit demanding $2,900 damages, covering the years 1936 and 1937, revived in common pleas court in the name of Mrs. Inez E. Batdorf, widow and executrix of her husband's estate, has been dismissed at her request. She also released the Wabash company from further liability.

JAMESTOWN IN SUIT BROUGHT BY BONDHOLDER

One of the most unusual suits in the history of Greene county courts has just been filed by Edward J. Sleske, Cincinnati, O., against the village of Jamestown, in the Ohio Supreme Court.

The plaintiff owns some of the bonds issued by the village to pay for its share of a sewer system, the government paying a share also by grant of PWA.

Under contract which the bonds were sold the plaintiff says the village was to charge a sewer rental but that "conspiracy" has been resorted to between council and the board of public affairs not to enforce the ordinance.

He contends that the village has on its books an ordinance requiring the connection of all property with the sewer system and that out-buildings and cess pools have been outlawed. This ordinance he says has not been enforced as required by state law.

As a result of non-enforcement only 64 lot owners have tapped into the public sewer and 100 or more have refused to do so, this jeopardizing all chance of meeting the bond obligations.

The claim is also made that the village has at times defaulted on interest obligations. The suits names members of the Board of Public Affairs, the mayor and marshal.

Jamestown installed both a water system and sewerage system under federal government grants and it is said sufficient revenue has not been collected to meet interest and bond obligations.

VANDALS DESTROY FLOWERS ON MAIN ST. BRIDGE RAILING

While the civic committees of the local ladies' clubs have provided flower boxes for decorating the bridge railings as a matter of local pride it has fallen to vandals of the moran type to destroy the flowers on the west railing last Saturday night. Criticism does not cure such acts when we live in a period of wanton waste and destruction of not only property but values as well.

PROPERTY OWNERS HAVE THEIR PROBLEM

The suit in the Ohio Supreme Court against the village of Jamestown should be of interest to Cedarville property owners as well as officials. Cedarville has the advantage of never having defaulted on any water or sewer bonds or interest. The village also has an unenviable record on never having defaulted a bond payment in its history. To our advantage also is that we do not owe one dollar of bonded debt to Uncle Sam in the New Deal prosperity by debt movement. Cedarville property owners are paying for their own improvement.

While we point with some pride to the above record we do not overlook the fact that Cedarville has an ordinance, as required by state law, that requires each and every property owner where they are a sanitary sewer to connect and prohibits the use of anything else. This duty falls on village council and members of the board of public affairs here as in Jamestown. It is no pleasant task but a duty required by law. In fact any taxpayer can bring a similar suit against village officials to enforce the ordinance.

Such a suit should not be necessary if property owners would look at the situation from a civic standpoint. The more consumers of municipal water and the more property connected with the sewerage system the better it will be for everyone. Unless property owners do take advantage of the system, do not be surprised if the state does not enter the picture and force such action. The determination of the Jamestown suit will have a great bearing on every village having such systems in the state, if the ordinance is not enforced to connect property on municipal sewerage lines.

PICKERING ELECTRIC

Contractor and Dealer

Sen. Vic Donahey, tired of the New Deal, takes adjournment on himself and returns to his cottage on Indian Lake, without the formality of awaiting final adjournment of the Senate. It is said Vic does not approve of several of the New Deal proposals now up for consideration and has returned home, leaving the FDR followers to their own fate. Conditions in Washington have changed within the past month and many New Deal and Democratic congressmen and senators have enlisted under Vice President Garner's banner. By a coalition of the two with the full Republican support several 'crack-pot' measures with the FDR must order have been radically changed or held in committee. Sen. Vic knows enough when to keep away from deep water regardless of the fact that he does not expect to seek another term. When he first went to the Senate he publicly stated that he would vote for what he thought was right and that he was not a 100 per cent New Dealer.

Will Secretary Wallace call for a corn referendum this fall as he is required to do under the law? He now suggests to congress a change in the law to escape such a referendum. All reports indicate that the corn crop will be several hundred million bushels more than the Wallace quota. The New Deal has yet to find a plan to control the elements that have been so favorable to a big crop in the corn belt.

One of Springfield's leading citizens has recently returned from a trip to England. He was asked as to what the war sentiment was in that country. His reply indicated that the Paris editions of New York papers have more news about war prospects in on edition than can be found in any English paper in a month. England at present has a form of censorship. Companies making war supplies are working seven days and seven nights each week and taking large profits and the government takes most of the profit in taxes. England is prosperous, now due to spending for the next world war, but the populace is growing poorer each month due to high living costs. He says Chamberlain is due for a political crash before many months as the people have been misinformed as to his intentions.

Some days ago we were halted on the street in Springfield by a call from a voice that sounded familiar. Turning we stood face to face with a former Cedarville boy that had made good and was enjoying the best in life at his age of seventy years. When James (Jim as local people knew him) Tracy was a lad in a local family he was handicapped to an extent that brought the attention of John App and wife, who then operated the local hotel on south Main street. As Jim grew older he aspired for a job that he might be able to do something for himself. Looking around he thought he might like the bakery business and through the pleading of Mr. App, Jim was given a job and a place in the home of the late Jacob Siegler. Here he learned all that was known of the baking business of that day. His next step was a job in a Springfield bakery and soon he was advanced from one position to another and finally neared the top in management. By this time Jim's earning had grown where he was able to engaged in business for himself. Success was his for a few years and a large corporation seeing what he had done took over his business at a handsome profit to Jim. Later he opened a shop in another part of the city and again his bread wagons were covering the city with a kind of bread best known as coming from the old fashioned oven in Cedarville where he learned his trade. Another company wanted to know Jim's success and again he sold at a profit. Following a short retirement at the solicitation of Springfield bakers Jim was asked to seek state bakery inspector and took his first job under Gov. Frank Willis. He remained in that capacity twenty-three years and retired due to ill health three years ago. Jim has acquired considerable property in Springfield that returns good income. He of course gets his state pension for faithful service. During the winter Jim and his wife reside in St. Petersburg, Fla., and in the summer at Lakeside, O. There is room at the top today where there is a will to seek the kind of success such as Jim Tracy found. Competition may be stronger today but still there is room at the top.

Will FDR sign the famous Hatch bill that has passed both houses of Congress? It is generally believed he will if he is seeking a third term. If not he might veto the law. The law places heavy penalty for WPA, CCC, AAA, employees, along with others on the federal payroll taking part in the next election. There was only one opposing vote in the Ohio delegation and most of the Democrats in each house supported the bill which is to tie the hands of lesser federal employees. Roosevelt and cabinet members are exempted. The bill will be enforced because the Republicans will be checking on all government employees.

Business channels report a big drop in retail business not only in Ohio but over the entire country. Some manufacturers are active but mostly in steel due to new models of automobiles now being turned out. Sales taxes increase but all credit for this goes to the new law sponsored by the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants under the direction of George Sheridan, one of the most aggressive and yet conservative business organizers in the country. It was he who thought out the plan that brought about the law for the redemption of sales coupons to stimulate interest on the part of buyers. Previous to this law the sales tax collection had been broken down. People had lost interest and the sales tax device was overloaded with Davey appointees there was no efficiency. Taxes were only being collected to pay the salaries of appointees from political ranks. Now that consumers are demanding the stamps and turning them over to some organization that can meet the requirements of the law, sales tax revenues in the state continue to mount in the face of dragging retail business.

The county the past few days has experienced a new wave of disturbance among the Roosevelt prosperity boosters. The biggest event was in Yellow Springs, Saturday night when some twenty or more engaged in a free for all and where a black-jack is said to have been used with one man receiving a broken arm. The village marshal could not control the crowd that centered on the owners of a cafe and the sheriff's office had to be called upon for assistance. Charges have been filed in mayor's court against Frank, Glen and Thomas DeWine. The barn dance on the Columbus pike this side of Xenia had its share of disturbance and it is reported the proprietor received a bruised eye at the end of an auto wrench.

Yellow Springs citizens are said to be laying plans for action that will do away with cafes in the village. The New Deal is digging a grave for itself in more ways than one.

James Prickard, well known Federal Pike farmer, is in a quandry and asks this office for advice as to what the law is on shearing rules. He says he has two that need shearing and is afraid to have the act performed until he gets permission from the proper authority. He realizes that there are only a few things the average farmer can do without seeking permission of someone. Not being familiar with AAA laws Jim asks us whether he should consult the Kaiser (FDR), first or Secretary Wallace. We beg the question and leave it to anyone who knows just what procedure Mr. Prickard should follow.

Mr. Prickard should proceed with caution for it must be remembered that the rule is a first cousin to that animal that has stood so long for Democracy. In the days of long ago Democrats thought well of the donkey but the nearest the New Deal has delved into family of the animal kingdom was investing more than $5,000 in an impotent jackass to range the hills around the big dam down in Tennessee.

"Thank God for a governor who has the courage of his convictions," declared Rev. Samuel J. Williams in his sermon Sunday at Mt. Tabor Methodist Church, lauding Gov. Dickinson of Michigan for his recent public utterances on the evil effects of drinking. "What a blessing it would be if we had a president who cared to take such a righteous stand."

Ohio Democrats will hold a big powwow at the State fair grounds, Saturday, advertised as a harmony meeting. The Sawyer and Davey factions have not yet laid down their war implements and the Columbus meeting is not expected to bring tears among the brethren over what has happened. Charles Sawyer is on a trip to Europe. Martin L. Davey has found business reasons to be in the south but his shadow will be ever present in George Carroll, general chairman. It is he the Sawyerites and the New Dealers will watch with suspicion. Some say the crowd will be 15,000 while the promoters say 25,000. All state and county delegations still anxious to get a taste of the tax payers' dollar.

Previous there was a program of nuptials music by Miss Dorothy Corry, a cousin of the bride, Miss Helen Ayers, Grover Hill, O., Mrs. Bernice Sprank and Mr. Clyde Myers, North Bend. P. M. GILLILAN DIED SUDDENLY THURSDAY A. M.

P. M. Gillilan, 59, owner and operator of the local bakery, died suddenly Thursday morning about 6:00 o'clock, death being due to heart trouble following an attack of indigestion.

Mr. Gillilan had opened his place of business as usual and feeling that he needed medical attention, called Dr. Donald Kyle, and there received treatment. He was taken home and was thought to be resting comfortably when he suffered another attack and died before additional medical aid could be rendered.

The deceased with his brother-in-law, A. E. Jolly, Dayton, came to Cedarville in 1918, where they took over the Post Bakery, the partner retiring a few years later. Mr. Gillilan had previously operated a bakery at Belpre, O., where he also served as mayor of that village.

During his residence in Cedarville he had commanded the respect and admiration of a large following. He was prominent in civic affairs being a member of the board of education at the time of his death; he was also secretary and treasurer of North Cemetery Association; a Scottish Rite Mason and always was a leader in the Methodist Church.

The deceased was the son of Alanson and Reona Gillilan and was born in Racine, O., Meigs county. Besides his widow and one daughter, Jane Ellen, he is survived by the following sisters and brother: Mrs. Etta Jones, Beaver, Pa.; Mrs. Amanda McBride, Syracuse, O.; Mrs. Lydia Spangue, Pomery, O.; and Charles Gillilan, Breckenridge, Pa.

The funeral will be held from the M. E. Church, Sunday at 2:30 p. m., with burial in North Cemetery.

Congressional Happenings

did two Progressives, 182 Democrats and 1 American Labor member voted against the bill, the final summary being 242 for the measure and 133 against it. The final vote did not come until past midnight. Within a few hours the bill was massaged to the Senate, where the House amendment was immediately approved and the bill sent to the President for his consideration and action.

That the Spend-Lend program of the President will have a rough voyage before it gets through Congress seems certain. Already Senate and House committees have cut more than a billion dollars out of the proposed bill and, with opposition to the various proposals growing heated, it is predicted that only a small portion of the original New Deal spending plan will be written into law.

GOOD WILL REVIEW OF BUSINESS PEOPLE OF CEDARVILLE'S NEIGHBORING CITY.
SEE THEM WHEN ATTENDING THE 100TH GREENE COUNTY FAIR.

THE XENIA NATIONAL BANK Of Xenia, for over a Century has been the depository for many firms and families over this part of the state, who have relied upon its wise counsel to amply supply them in the safeguarding of their accounts. Among the financial institutions of the community, there are indeed few which can show more substantial progress. The Xenia National Bank is noted for its sound, energetic, and conservative management, commanding in a marked degree the confidence of their depositors and of the public at large, a condition that is the aim of any executive board. This bank is prepared to care for the accounts of individuals, firms, corporations, and estates, and they invite interviews or correspondence with those contemplating making changes or opening new accounts. They are members of The Federal Reserve System and each account insured to $500,000 F. D. I. C. Uniform consideration is given small or large deposits. Its officers have worked side by side for the advancement of business in this part of the state and they thoroughly understand its banking needs.	The Geo. Dodds & Sons Granite Company Of Xenia have been serving this community for seventy-five years in monuments, mausoleums and markers of originality and quality. When you are in Xenia, be sure to visit their display rooms. They maintain the finest Memorial Art Exhibit in Ohio. The placing of memorials over the graves of the dead is a custom that originated with our earliest civilization. Today every head of a family should see that a monument is placed on the family's cemetery lot in order to preserve the family name. The Geo. Dodds & Sons Granite Company has a large stock of the world's leading granites. They are expert designers and artists of monumental work and are prepared to make up anything according to the individual ideas of their customers. They will submit designs in keeping with the size of the work desired, furnishing anything from the simplest headstone to a mausoleum. They always have monuments in various sizes that can be purchased and set up upon a few day's notice. Let them figure with you.	CHENOWETH MOTOR CO. At 226 South Detroit Street, who are dealers for Pontiac and Buick Motor Cars, and G. M. C. Trucks, are offering some exceptional values in good used cars. They invite your inspection and comparison of prices. The real test for an automobile is the manner in which it actually stands up on the road. The record of good performance of the cars that have been purchased from Chenoweth's is the only testimony they need to offer to gain more business. They have established their reputation upon reliability and real motor car values. You will find a model to suit your purpose—one that will give you the most trouble-free transportation at a fraction of the cost of a new car. For the cars offered for sale here have been reconditioned and put in shape to give satisfactory service for the amount of money expended. What ever they tell you about the cars they sell, you can depend upon their word. Chenoweth's service department is in the hands of expert mechanics. Their policy has always been to give dependable motor car service.	EICHMAN'S Electric Shop, 62 West Main Street, has long been headquarters for electrical appliances for the people of this community; radios, refrigerators, ranges, washing machines, ironers and many other things that increase the efficiency of any home while eliminating its drudgeries. They feature Electrolux Refrigerators, Maytag Washers and Zenith Radios. The Electrolux occupies an important place in the American home in these days of enforced economy, for it is noted for its fool-proof and economical operation. It has no moving parts, which means that it calls for no repairs. It is built to give lifetime service and is permanently silent. Eichman's are distributors of real comfort and efficiency to the farm and suburban home, for through their service there is not a home in the County, no matter how far they are located from the gas mains, that cannot enjoy the ownership and luxury of this modern refrigerator for the Electrolux can be operated efficiently with kerosene as well as with gas, also Philgas the perfect, economical fuel for every cooking operation. When you are in Xenia stop in and see the Electrolux. Those in charge will be glad to give you prices and explain its low operating cost.	RED WING PURITY DAIRY CO 145 Hill Street, needs no introduction, for they have served this community with dairy products of highest quality for a number of years. Through education and the medium of advertising the people of today, have become vitamin-minded and they are giving greater attention to food values. This accounts to a great extent for the place ice cream has on the daily menu. Twenty-five years ago ice cream was more or less of a luxury and its serving was an event, but today, because its great value as a food and its easy digestibility have received wide recognition, it is being eaten in increasing amounts. That in addition to the fact that it has become America's most popular dessert, from the standpoint of taste alone. The Red Wing Purity Dairy Company maintains a modern equipped plant where only the purest of ingredients are used in their products. Red Wing Ice Cream is truly delicious. It is featured in many flavors and nut combinations for they cater to every taste. They furnish fancy moulds for special occasions.	XENIA AUTO WRECKING CO. Located at 215 South Collier Street, occupies a most important place in the transportation life of this Community for no firm is doing more to keep the wheels of pleasure, commerce, industry, and agriculture on the move. They can save you money on auto parts.
